The 8,000 ton P&O Liner Egypt departed Tilbury bound for Marseilles and Bombay. When she encountered dense fog her engines were stopped and at this time she was struck midships by the 1,383 ton French Steamship Seine. As a result, on 20 May 1922 the Egypt sank in sixty fathoms deep water near Ushant, a French island at the south-west end of the English Channel, taking the lives of 71 of her 294 crew and 15 of her 44 passengers and also a cargo of £1,054,000 in gold and silver. The first recovery started in June 1929 with the majority of the gold and silver recovered over a five year period by the Italian Society for Marine Recovery using newly patented equipment.

China, uncertain period, "Ch'in" series, double dragon head type, odd shaped medium of exchange and also known as "bridge money", (c.1000-500 B.C.), (37.54 g), length 95mms, (cf. Coole 6722 - 6736, Vol.5 p.478, 482, Not in Sch. or TFP). With green patina, very fine and very rare.

$150

Coole in "Coins in China's History", discusses these pieces under "Odd Shaped Mediums of Exchange", and that these pieces were initially used in that transitional period between the bartering age and the coin age. They were made in many shapes and resembled various valuable utensils and objects used at that time including fish, bells, lotus roots, shields etc. Thus these objects in copper described above look like the early jade musical instruments called ch'in and they were used in orchestras like the modern metallic triangles. Dragon head "ch'in" are rarely seen and seem to have some monetary exchange value.

$200

The Chou Dynasty (1125 - 255 BC) paved the way for the first unification of China in 221 BC. During the Zhou dynasty, China evolved from a feudal state with power divided among vassals to one with a strong centralized government. The practice of casting weapons, farm implements and coins out of iron and copper had begun during this time, permitting the Chou to grow considerably. This was a time of great prosperity that would not be seen again in China for many centuries. Included in this was the development of money, which changed from its old form to one where coins acquired inscriptions of various types, mostly referring to weights, values and location of origin. In this case there is an ancient 'cowrie' shaped piece, but with the addition of the wording, know as 'pi'chien or ant nose money. Each high quality piece dates from the 3rd Century before Christ and bears a hole for easy handling in quantity.

$1,500

Stephen Album, USA notes the following interesting comment about this type coin. At that time 5,000 Wu Shu was equal to 1/2 cattie of gold. A cattie weighed about 120 grams, so these knives were valued at about 60 grams (2 ounces) of pure gold. We have not been able to find a relative value for gold in ancient China, but in the same time frame in the Roman Empire, two ounces of gold would have been at least a year's wages to an average citizen, thus the problem with this issue. It was fiat currency with a named value very high, but with little intrinsic value.
