$250

Ex Samaria Hoard (No.97) and Sotheby, Zurich Sale, October 27-8, 1993 (lot 989 part). This lot gives an opportunity to acquire an example from the famous "Samaria Hoard" published in Meshorer & Qedar "Coinage of Samaria in the Fourth Century BCE", Jerusalem, 1991. Every coin in that hoard is illustrated with enlargements and this hoard together with a few other finds became the basis of establishing the existence of a series in an era never previously recognised in the published literature. The legend which reads Samaria, remains uncertain, whether it means the city, the province or the state, or a combination of these meanings. By c.400 B.C., the Samaritans were still considered Jewish and as such were approached by the Jews of Elephantine. The Samaritan high priests and governors in the 5th and 4th century B.C. in the Elephantine documents bear Jewish names. The final separation between the Samaritans and the Jews probably took place a few years after the Samaritan hoard's burial (c.346-5 B.C.). Consequently this small group of coins effectively form part of a collection of Biblical coins.

Neither Martini nor Pangerl have this countermark. It could be slightly barbarous in form but clearly placed on the coin only a decade or two after striking. The countermarked letters seem to mean TIB AV or maybe TIB IMP (Tiberius Augustus or Imperator), The host type coin was widely used and overstruck on Pangerl types 50 and 57. It was in the Germania area that this countermark was applied to circulating worn coinage. The second coin is an issue of Augustus c.18-15 B.C. but is of uncertain magistrate on a dupondius with these countermarks, both countermarks occur on other dupondii. The two countermarks are not reported for a retrograde TI CA and most issues of TI CA and AVG are coupled together, several are noted in the Pangerl collection.

Martini notes the letters which he believes to mean TIB IMP (Tiberius Imperator) and IMP AVG (Imperator Augustus). He notes this issues as struck on generally issues of Augustus or Claudius respectively. Martini places the issue of these types to the period of Caligula and Vespasian and Titus. BMC in its discussion within the footnote to another coin No.391 [page 276] comments, that the coin is "quite clearly exceptional, the head is laureate as on the Roman as but the style seems to be clearly Lugdunum". It is a hybrid being "obverse of the reign of Nero, rev. of the reign of Tiberius". Mattingly further notes as "The chief point of interest is that [it] supports the suggestion made in the [BMC] introduction that the 'Divus Augustus Pater' coinage had a particular connexion with Gaul". Needless to say the coin is of exceptional importance and rarity and is only known by a poorer example of this type in the Denmark National collection in Copenhagen.

Nero, (A.D. 54-68), AE As, uncertain Balkan mint, issued A.D. 64-68 and probably issued before mid 66, (9.99 grams), obv. laureate head of Nero to right, around NERO CLAVDIVS CAESAR AVG [GERM P M TR P], rev. RIC Volume I (1st edition) notes the example in Gotha and introduces this as an unusual type, known apparently from single examples. In the RIC second edition a small section at the end of the Nero listing describes Uncertain (Balkan?) Mint. He notes them as an issue with several other coins as semi-official aes which are striking Latin - legended coins in a Greek - speaking area and probably in the frontier area occupied by the legions in Upper and Lower Moesia which lay far from other aes mints (a semi-official military mint). MacDowall in Num. Chron. 1960 (pp.106 ff) illustrates the Gotha example (cited above) and list four others in the museums at Copenhagen, Sofia, Warsaw and Leningrad. All seem to have the same unique obverse legend and of similar style and fabric.

Aelius Lamia issued 18-17 B.C., with countermark of CAE (Caesar) and PP (Pater Patriae) (both in oval), (Martini, No 37, Pangerl Collection of Countermarked Imperial coins type 77 and 81, host coin, RIC 324). *Countermarks, fine - very fine, host coin fair - nearly fine and both very rare. Martini notes for the first coin the countermarked letters which he believes to mean TI AV (Titus? Augustus with some hoard evidence suggesting period 79-83 A.D.), but because of uniformity of overstriking on Gaius and Claudius period issues it also may suggest much earlier during the reign of Nero. Martini suggests the countermark may be imitative. It was in a Germania area that this countermark was applied to circulating worn coinage. The Pangerl collection contained one example only on an Agrippa as. The second coin is an issue of Augustus c.18-17 B.C. but is not listed for this magistrate on a dupondius with these countermarks, but both countermarks occur on other dupondii. A most interesting reverse for Julia Paula. It was probably based on a unpublished reverse type of Elagabalus although the Imperial titles are not consistent for Elagabalus and the reverse appears unknown for this ruler. Such a reverse would never be used by a wife of a ruler and could only occur by mixing of dies (known for some rulers and issues). We believe it to be an ancient plated forgery made from two incompatible dies of excellent style.

In hoc signo vinces is the Latin transparent translation of the Greek phrase meaning "in this sign you will conquer". According to legend, Constantine I adopted this Greek phrase, as a motto after his vision of a "chi rho" in the sky just before the Battle of Milvian Bridge against Maxentius in the year 312. The early Christian symbol consists in a cross formed by the Greek letters chi and rho, the first two letters in the name Christ (used on the labarum or standard of the above coin). The historian Eusebius states that Constantine was marching with his army (Eusebius doesn't specify the actual location of the event, but it's clearly not in the camp at Rome), when he looked up to the sun and saw a cross of light above it, and with it the Greek words meaning ("in this, be victorious!", often rendered in Latin as "In hoc signo vinces" as used on the above coin). At first, Constantine didn't know the meaning of the apparition, but in the following night, he had a dream in which Christ explained to him that he should use the sign against his enemies. Eusebius then continues to describe the Labarum, the military standard used by Constantine in his later wars against Licinius, showing the Chi-Rho sign. Its use of the above legend and standard by Vetranio (and also by Constantius II) is an echo of the experience of Constantine.

The book is a pioneering comprehensive effort in study of Sikh coins. It gives detailed history of Sikhs and varied coins issued by them from various mints. This is further appended by General Taylor report on coinage of the Phulkian States, medals and tokens and European travelers and adventurers in Ranjit Singh's empire. The Sikh coinage started in the second half of the eighteenth century, reached its apogee during the rule of Maharaja Ranjit Singh and ended abruptly with the annexation of the Punjab by the British in 1849. Although the Sikhs struck coins in about 20 mints, there coinage remained quite uniform until the end. Their rupees bear religious legends and never mention their issuer, but Amritsar, their main economic and religious center, produced the most complex system of mintmarks in modern India. Early observers were often baffled by the first major non-Mughal coinage of Northern India and their descriptions of Sikh coins are commonly full of errors, errors that have all too often survived until today. In a first part the present book gives a short historical introduction and a general survey of the Sikh coinage. The second part consists of an illustrated catalogue of all the actually known Sikh coin types arranged by mints. Several appendices offer a brief survey of Sikh tokens and medals and a few important numismatic texts. This book is not only intended as a useful tool for coin collectors, but also as a source of material for historians and students of the economy of the Sikh Empire.
