Ex R.A. Climpson Collection. The first annual exhibition was held by the Ballarat Agricultural Society on 27-28 October 1859. The above medal was awarded for Class 20 - Five Fat Ewes - to Mr D.Swan of Burrumbeet. The reported comments regarding this award were, 'This too was a fine clean pen, and with their heavy glossy fleeces, told a tale of what may yet lie in store for the district. We need not say that the prize was readily enough given also in this case.' For this inaugural event only 21 silver medals were awarded. On 19 June 1861 at a public meeting at Swan's Bridge Hotel, Burrumbeet Mr D.Swan was elected to the committee to manage the farmers' commons for Burrumbeet and Windermere.

In 1870, he commenced employment in the Queensland Public Service. He married in Maryborough in 1873. He was president of the Jockey Club at Charleville and Gayndah. The Charleville Times later wrote of the time "when Parry-Okeden was king". In the 1890's he was picked by the Government to restore order after the shearer strikes. He was appointed Commissioner in 1895 and because of his understanding of the aborigines he became Protector of Aborigines. As Police Commissioner he brought about much reform. He was appointed I.S.O in 1903 and retired in 1905. The Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria was an appropriate time to recognize the men and officers of the force with this unique medal.
