$1,500

Licensed boatmen provided a ferry service in rowing boats in Sydney Cove and Darling Harbour, for example by rowing across Sydney Harbour from points such as Millers Point (south side) to Blues Point (north side).

The regulations stated that the boatman had to register his name and place of abode at the Police Office and then receive a badge which was to be worn on the left breast of his coat or jacket. The boatman also had to have his name and place of abode painted in one inch long letters on the inside of the gunwale of the stern of his boat and also on the inside of the gunwale of the fore sheets.

See article in The Australiana Society, Australiana magazine, Vol 29 No 1, February 2007, Licensed Boatman badges by Les Carlisle. In this article is recorded that the Licensed Boatman badges for Sydney known to still exist total 9, numbered between 95 and 638, including one with details unknown. Thomas Fielder No.98 is recorded, one of only 4 in private collections and is the second lowest number known. The lowest number being No.95 to George Prince in the collection of the Australian National Maritime Museum, Sydney.

George Duncan Guthrie emigrated from Scotland to Sydney, at the age of 22, arriving in 1852. He tried a few failed business ventures and moved to Victoria eventually arriving at Sandhurst, now known as Bendigo, and found that the white clay found there was of superior quality so he established a pottery there in 1857, something that he had been trained in before leaving Scotland. Unfortunately because of the remote location at the time the business eventually had to be closed in 1861.

After a double track railway line between Melbourne and Bendigo was built he re-established the business in 1863. Guthrie sold the business in 1886 but retained some shareholding. In 1898 he, along with a partner, purchased the Bendigo Pottery business with him managing the company. A fire burnt much of the factory in 1900 but it was rebuilt. Guthrie retired in 1909 and died in 1910 with his burial taking place on 22 September 1910 at Bendigo Cemetery. The Bendigo Pottery went through several ownership changes over the years but it is still operating and is the oldest working pottery in Australia.

In the Exhibition Report it states the London Committee - Right Honourable Viscount Canterbury and also he is listed as a Commissioner. Graham Berry, Chief Secretary, Chief Secretary's Office, Melbourne, 7 July 1879 wrote, 'Exhibition 1880. The Governor with the advice of the Executive Council has been pleased to appoint the Right Honourable Viscount Canterbury... and others...to be additional members of the Commission appointed on 20
March last to carry out and superintend the Melbourne Exhibition 1880.'

Viscount Canterbury was educated at Eton, Trinity and Cambridge (M.A.).
Appointed to House of Commons in 1839 but unseated for bribery. He served as Lieut. Governor of New Brunswick 1854-61, and Governor of Trinidad 1864-66. On 15 August 1866 he was attacked by Gavan Duffy
'as an impoverished peer whose business in the colonies was to increase his balance at the bank.' His father had died insolvent in 1845. He became the 3rd Viscount of Canterbury when his brother died in 1869. His popularity in Victoria was well established when he left in 1873 to take up his seat in the House of Lords and he was appointed G.C.M.G.

Edwin Cuthbert Hall (1874-1953) was an Australian physician and philanthropist who through a bequest funded the Edwin Cuthbert Hall Chair of Middle Eastern Archaeology within the Department of Archaeology at the University of Sydney. In 1973, the Hall Bequest was the second largest donation to the University after the Power Bequest.

Hall was born in Sydney to Reuben and Mary Ann Hall of Ashfield, New South Wales, and attended Newington College (1886-1891). In 1889 and again in 1890, he won the Wigram Allen Scholarship, awarded by Sir George Wigram Allen, for mathematics, with David Edwards receiving it in 1890 for classics. At the end of 1891 Hall was named Dux of the College and received the Schofield Scholarship. He went up to the University of Sydney and in 1894 graduated as a Bachelor of Medicine and Bachelor of Surgery.

After appointments as a resident medical officer and a medical superintendent at Royal Prince Alfred Hospital, Hall became the Government Medical Officer at Parramatta, New South Wales in 1922. After the death of his first wife, he became a specialist with rooms in Macquarie Street, Sydney. Hall was the author of several plant species, especially in the genus Eucalyptus.

The terms of Hall's will were that his estate was to be held in trust until the death of his wife "for the University of Sydney for the endowment of a Professorship in the subjects of Archaeology and Mythology in the Ancient Middle East, namely, Palestine, Egypt and Asia Minor." On 31 December 1959 the University received £88,608 12s. 7d. In 1960 the Edwin Cuthbert Hall Chair of Middle Eastern Archaeology was established with the first occupant being appointed on 2 August 1960.

The medal indicates that the award was for saving life at Tathra however the rescue made by Stanley Melvin was in fact at Baulkham Hills.

Citation: Stanley Hubert Melvin. - On December 26, 1910, some boys were fishing in a deep waterhole at Baulkham Hills, when one of them named Arthur Mobbs, aged 9, leant against an old stump, which, giving way, he was thrown into the waterhole. His brother, Eric, aged 15, immediately jumped in, but being unable to swim was also in difficulties. On hearing the cries of another boy who was present, Mr. Melvin at once ran a considerable distance from his house, and, diving in, brought out Eric in an unconscious condition. On animation being restored, Mr. Melvin heard for the first time that Arthur was also in the waterhole. He immediately dived in again and secured the body, but, unfortunately, life was found to be extinct. - Awarded bronze medal and certificate of merit.

'It was Chris Webb whom Mr. Mark Foy chose to go to England and sail his challenger, the "Southerly Buster" for the Anglo-Australian Shield, which the Englishmen won with the Maid of Kent from the Sydney boat Irex, but the race did not eventuate. It was Chris Webb who went to the other States and won outright the big cup presented for Inter-State racing, and it was Chris Webb who topped the list of prize-winners at Sydney for several seasons past against 12 to 15 rivals in each race, although sailing from scratch on almost every occasion, and that is a feat that takes no end of doing. He really climbed the ladder of success by way of the two 18-footers named Australian and has won in 10 seasons about £1015.'

William 'Bill' Longworth was an Australian freestyle swimmer who represented Australasia in the 1912 Summer Olympics. He went to Sydney Grammar School where he was outstanding in swimming, athletics and rugby union. In January 1911, representing the Eastern Suburbs Swimming Club, he won the 1,320 yard freestyle event by 30 yards at the Australian Championships in world record time and in doing so beat Cecil Healy and Frank Beaurepaire. In 1912 he won all New South Wales and Australian freestyle championship events from 100 yards to one mile. In the same year he also qualified for the final of the 100 metres freestyle as well as for the semi-finals of the 1500 metres freestyle at the Olympic Games in Stockholm, Sweden, but because of illness was forced to withdraw. Then in 1913 and 1914 he won every New South Wales and Australian freestyle swimming title except for the 100 yards.

Born at Singleton, New South Wales on 26 September 1892 'Bill' Longworth enlisted in the AIF on 13 September 1915. He embarked in May 1916 and served in France as a sergeant with the Anzac Entrenchment Battalion as well as in supply and motor transport columns. He was commissioned in June 1917 and while overseas represented the AIF in swimming competitions. He married an English woman, Ellen Humphrey on 16 July 1919, returning to Australia in November.

After the war he entered the lucrative family business and over the years held directorships with various companies. He was also prominent in the sport of billiards and snooker being the New South Wales amateur snooker champion in 1920 and 1921, and Sydney Metropolitan billiards champion in 1937. He was vice-president of the British Billiards Control Council, a member of the Australian Jockey Club as well as a racehorse owner and was chairman of the Owners and Trainers' Association and the Sydney Turf Club. In 1946 he was divorced and remarried on 5 February 1947 to Irene Ley. William Longworth died at his home in Wahroonga, Sydney, New South Wales on 19 October 1969.

KPM: Supplement to LG 1/1/1913, p6.

Recommendation: At great personal risk rescued from drowning in the Brisbane River a man attempting suicide.

(With copy of certificate for award of KPM).

Also awarded the Royal Humane Society Bronze Medal for the same incident. The RHS Annual Report records the award details as follows,

'John Carrigg aged 29 and John James Grayson aged 23 years, Constables of Police, Brisbane, who rescued Lionel Hart from drowning in the Brisbane River on the night of September 20th, 1909. Hart jumped into the river in a demented state, and was drowning. Carrigg stripped, jumped in, swam about 50 yards and reached Hart, who struggled violently. He dragged Hart to a pontoon and with much difficulty got him onto it. He waited for nearly half an hour for assistance, during which time he had several struggles with Hart, in which both were many times thrown off the pontoon. Then Grayson came upon the scene and swam to the pontoon. Hart again resisted violently and all three toppled into the river. They again got Hart onto the pontoon but Grayson had great difficulty in regaining it, as his heavy clothes impeded him. Eventually other assistance arrived and all were taken on shore. The Constables were much exhausted.' Bronze Medal to Carrigg and Certificate of Merit to Grayson.

John Carrigg was born in 1879 at Ennrstymon, Ireland. He was a carpenter by trade. He served in the Straits Settlements Police Force 2 June 1902 to 2 March 1905. He was sworn into the Queensland Police Force on 27 November 1908 at the age of 29. He served at Roma Street Station, Brisbane; Toowong; and Breakfast Creek Station, Brisbane. He retired on 1 January 1924 and died 17 July 1937 at age 58.

The above badge was issued at the first public presentation of gold valour badges which had been instituted in 1916. The presentation was made to 17 police officers by the Chief Secretary, Mr McLeod MLA at Russell Street Barracks on 26 September 1916 with about 250 Constables on parade and in attendance was the Chief Commissioner, Mr A.G.Sainsbury and leading officers of the police force.

When presenting the gold badges Mr McLeod said they were a reward for valour. He said men at the front were receiving VCs for deeds not more worthy, perhaps, than some that were performed by the police, and the Government in adopting the innovation felt that a suitable medal should be given to members of the force when exceptional determination, valour, or devotion to duty was exhibited. He eulogised the marked bravery of several constables who had recently faced desperate armed criminals and succeeded in arresting them.

Constable W.Downes along with Constables F.Bresnan and J.Walsh were each recommended for gold badges for displaying great courage and determination when they arrested John Lane, George Rankin and Ernest Watson on 6 May after an exciting chase in the city of Melbourne. The recommendation was made by Inspecting Superintendent L.Gleeson. The constables saw the three men behaving suspiciously in Flinders Lane and followed them. John Lane fired a revolver but nobody was injured. The chase then became exciting with civilians joining in including one soldier who had been wounded at the Gallipoli landing. The three men were captured and then recognised as desperate young criminals who were suspected of having broken into many shops in Melbourne on Saturday afternoons.

John Lane was charged with having shot with intent to murder, with having a housebreaking implement in his possession, and with warehouse breaking. On the charge of having shot at Constable Downes with intent to murder Lane was committed for trial at the Supreme Court. At the trial Constable W.Downes gave evidence regarding the pursuit and capture of Lane. In addition to the revolver, he said a jemmy was also taken from Lane's pocket when he was arrested.

Of the three criminals, Lane was sentenced to five years' imprisonment for having fired at Downes with intent, and Rankin and Watson each received two years' imprisonment for having loitered with intent to commit a felony.

Francis Bresnan, an engine driver, was born 14 July 1893 at Dunbulbalane (on the Nine Mile Creek about 200km north-northeast of Melbourne), Victoria. He was appointed as a Foot Constable to the Victorian Police Force on 17 December 1914 and discharged as a Constable on 1 November 1923 after 'Refusing Duty' during the police strike, along with many other constables, as recorded in Victoria Police Gazette 13 December 1923. Up until this time his conduct was recorded as good. As well as being awarded the Gold Valour Badge, along with two of his fellow policemen, for arresting three armed criminals he was also highly commended on 18 March 1918 for stopping at great personal risk a bolting horse in Elizabeth Street, Melbourne on 4 March 1918. The horse had freed itself from a van to which it had been attached and bolted out of Little Bourke Street and collided with another vehicle.

See previous lot 484 for award to Constable W.Downes, also for arresting the same three armed criminals and for details of the presentation of the Gold Valour Badge.

Case 3381: William Davies, Lambton, N.S.W., Grocer, aged 22, who risked his life in stopping two bolting horses, attached to an ambulance wagon, in Elder St., Lambton, on the evening of April 4, 1919. There was a crowd in the street, and as the horses dashed towards them Davies ran out and caught the near-side horse by the rein, and brought the pair to a stand-still after a hard struggle. Awarded a Bronze Medal.

At the Lambton Council meeting on 8 April 1919 a number of residents drew attention to the courageous action of William Davies, who was the means of preventing an accident to the ambulance and a patient in Elder Street. The ambulance had been sent from Newcastle to remove two influenza patients to Waratah and after one person was placed in the ambulance the driver left his seat to open the ambulance door for the other person who was being brought from a house on the other side of the street. Something startled the horses and they took off down the street until the intervention of William Davies. The residents asked that his actions be brought under the notice of the Royal Humane Society. The Council decided that the Town Clerk obtain the necessary papers and forward particulars to the society.

The following article was published in The Sydney Morning Herald, NSW, on Friday 4 May 1928, page 10.

DIAMOND JUBILEE - P. T. WIMBLE AND CO. LTD.

Sixty years ago when the population of Australia was not much more than of the City of Sydney to-day - Mr. Fred T Wimble established the business of manufacturing printing ink in Australia. He was the pioneer of the industry in the Commonwealth, and the business today extends to every part of the Southern Hemisphere. The May issue of "Wimble's Reminder" is the diamond jubilee number, and contains an interesting account of Mr Wimble's early difficulties and of the development of the business he established. The son and grandson of printing ink manufacturers, Mr Fred T. Wimble arrived in Australia when 21 years of age "with an ink-manufacturing equipment that could have been carried in a carpet bag of the period" and today, at the age of 82 years, he continues to direct the extensive business which he founded. The diamond jubilee number of the "Reminder" is a splendid issue, and the examples of colour and black and white printing reveal the perfection reached in the art of printing. The publication deals also with the latest developments in the manufacture of printing machinery, and contains a number of articles of interest to all branches of the craft.
